

Paycheck Protection Program Increase Act of 2020 April 2020

Note (April 22, 2020): The U.S. Senate passed the Paycheck Protection Program Increase Act on April 21, 2020; the U.S. House of Representatives is scheduled to vote on this bill on April 23, 2020. The information below reflects the Senate-passed version of this bill; this document will be updated to reflect the bill's progress.

Overview

In late April, Congress passed emergency legislation to replenish two critical small business loan programs: the Paycheck Protection Program and the Economic Injury Disaster Loan. Through the March 2020 CARES Act, both funds were made available to small business owners in early April 2020. The small-business demand for both resources quickly outpaced funding for both programs, prompting Congress to pass the Paycheck Protection Increase Act of 2020.

Paycheck Protection Program

The Paycheck Protection Increase Act adds $310 billion for the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP), which designates some of this funding according to business size. The PPP is a first-come, first-serve loan program intended to help employers with fewer than 500 employees maintain their payrolls for eight weeks. These loans are eligible for forgiveness if the recipient uses at least 75 percent of the funds for payroll maintenance (see table below for more information). Employers apply through a bank/credit union where they have an established business relationship. Read more about the Small Business Administration Paycheck Protection Program.

PPP Funding Designations: $310 Total

- $250 billion general PPP fund
- $30 billion for businesses with assets less than $10 billion
- $30 billion for businesses with assets between $10-$50 billion

Economic Injury Disaster Loan Program

In March, the CARES Act expanded eligibility for the Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL), an existing small business relief fund, to include small business owners affected by the COVID-19 emergency. The EIDL includes two funding pathways: a forgivable EIDL advance to cover emergency business costs, and a traditional loan to help employers with payroll, accounts payable, and overhead costs during the COVID-19 emergency. Like the PPP, the EIDL is a first-come, first served, fund available to small businesses with fewer than 500 employees. Employers apply for these funds directly through the Small Business Administration's EIDL page.

EIDL Funding Designations

- $10 billion for EIDL Advance grants
- $50 billion for EIDL loans
- $2.1 billion for SBA administrative expenses

Healthcare and COVID-19 Test Funding

The Paycheck Protection Program Increase Act also designates $100 billion to healthcare providers as well as to the federal and state COVID-19 testing efforts.

- $75 billion reimbursement to hospitals and providers reimbursement to support COVID-19 related expenses and lost revenue.
- $25 billion for COVID-19 testing
 - $11 billion earmarked for state testing efforts
 - $1 billion rest will go to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention for surveillance, epidemiology, lab expansion, contact tracing, public-health data surveillance, and analytics infrastructure modernization.
 - $1.8 billion to the National Institutes of Health to develop, validate, and implement, and improve testing and testing technologies, and research.
 - $1 billion for Biomedical Advanced Research and Development Authority for researching, developing, manufacturing, producing, and purchasing COVID-19 diagnostic and serology tests.
 - $22 million for Food and Drug Administration diagnostic, serological, antigen, and other COVID-19-related testing.
 - $825 million for Community Health Centers and rural health clinics.
 - Up to $1 billion for covering COVID-19 tests for the uninsured.
